

Preface – Ron Barnett

Introductory Chapter – Eli Bitzer & Nonnie Botha

PART ONE • Revitalising curriculum inquiry – Perspectives of researchers

- 1 Inquiring the curriculum in higher education – A limited (South African) perspective
Eli Bitzer
- 2 Curriculum types and models – A theoretical inquiry
Gawie du Toit
- 3 Challenges for curriculum in a contemporary South Africa
Lesley le Grange
- 4 Towards a principled basis for curriculum differentiation – Lessons from a comprehensive university
Suellen Shay, Martin Oosthuizen, Patsy Paxton & Renée van de Merwe
- 5 Utilitarianism and the fate of humanities in South African higher education – The Wits experience
Fatima Adam & Michael Cross
- 6 Inquiring into the higher education curriculum – A critical realist approach
Kathy Luckett

PART TWO • Challenges in reconceptualising undergraduate and postgraduate education

- 7 Intercultural space in higher education curricula
Nonnie Botha
- 8 Trans-disciplinarity and curriculum space in health sciences educationmaster’s programmes
Eli Bitzer
- 9 University and work – Curriculum inquiry from an activity theory perspective
James Garraway
- 10 Academic literacy as a graduate attribute – Implications for thinking about ‘curriculum’
Brenda Leibowitz

- 11 The university curriculum as institutional transformation
Driekie Hay & Nalize Marais
- 12 The bothersome business of curriculum in doctoral education
Barbara M Grant

PART THREE • Methods for interrogating, revisioning and implementing curriculum change

- 13 Action research and curriculum transformation
Adri Beylefeld
- 14 Creating a living curriculum – An insider approach to curriculum development
Lesley Wood
- 15 Informing curriculum development in health sciences – A Delphi method inquiry
Cristina Stefan
- 16 Critical curriculum inquiry in an undergraduate Visual Communication Design programme – A case study approach through a complexity theory lens
Elmarie Costandius
- 17 A small-scale classroom research approach to curriculum renewal
Mariette Koen
- 18 The university curriculum as engaging with external non-academic communities – A grounded theory inquiry approach
Antoinette Smith-Tolken
- 19 Curriculum mapping as inquiry in higher education
Matete Madiba
- 20 An appreciative inquiry approach to curriculum change
Marianne Bester

Index

List of Abbreviations

Contributing Authors