

Terms and conditions of use - IASI Database 2010 V3

General

The following disclaimer applies to the Invasive Alien Species Indicator (IASI) database. By using this database you are agreeing to be bound by the terms outlined in this disclaimer. The IASI may change the terms and conditions of the disclaimer at any time without giving notice.

IASI has no liability for the inability of anyone to access this database, or any information or material in it. Furthermore, we do not guarantee that this database will operate without interruption nor do we commit to ensuring that this database remains available beyond the lifespan of the project.

Use of information

IASI is the copyright owner of the IASI database. Information provided in this database is available to you for research purposes only. Permission should be obtained from IASI for other uses.

Any product or publication that is based wholly or in part on information contained in this database must acknowledge IASI as the source of the information and cite the database as outlined below (Citation).

Some of the information contained in the database is copyrighted by others and used by IASI with permission. Table 1 outlines the main data sources that were used in the compilation of the IASI database. If information from the IASI database is used it is the sole responsibility of you, the user of this database, to carefully examine the content of the IASI database and all linked pages for copyright restrictions and to secure the necessary permissions.

Content accuracy

The online version of the IASI database was last updated on 12 April 2010 and is a more recent version than that used in the McGeoch et al. 2010 publication. Although IASI make every effort to provide accurate, complete, useable and timely information on this database, neither we nor any third parties make representations or warranties of any kind, express or implied, that any information contained in the database is accurate, up to date or complete. Any reliance you place on such information is therefore strictly at your own risk. IASI accepts no liability for any loss or damage caused arising from your use of this database.
