Tu 25/10

Oral test during last teaching week of semester

Assessment:

The assessment of the students' performance is based on "continuous evaluation/ deurlopende evaluering" which includes daily class performance, homework assignments as well as quizzes and tests. All marks from all written and oral assignments will be taken account of in the calculation of the final mark at the end of the year ("prestasiapunt"). That means that there will be no exam at the end of the year. This implies that a student who has performed poorly during the year can do nothing to significantly improve his/her mark towards the end of the year. Students are required to attend all classes and to participate in all tests. If you are absent from a test, you will receive 0% unless you can produce a valid medical certificate. In order to pass the module it is essential to hand in all assignments and homework and to attend all classes.

Mandarin 318 is a semester module and the final mark ("prestasiapunt") is calculated as follows:

September Test (Language - 120 min)
November Test (Language & Culture -180 min)	20%
Written assignments and homework (Language)
Class tests (Language)	45%
1000-Character essay in Chinese
Oral examination October (20 min)	15%
Chinese Culture assignments and tests	20%

*will be examined internally and externally
